

Bio – Martin Albani

- Martin Albani is since 2001 a consultant with the International Finance Corporation (IFC/WGB) across the Mekong region. He is providing technical advisory services on the development of sustainable, market driven, and investible supply chains and the export promotion of valued agricultural commodities and specialties.
- Since 2001, Martin is consulting in fields of international development for the EU and for UN organisations on private sector development across Asia and in Africa.
- He gained expertise in developing and implementing national and sectoral export strategies and in the capacity building of private and public sector stakeholders in various industries.
- His trade related socio-economic development experience includes biodiversity preservation, gender (economic empowerment), nutrition, poverty reduction, and environmental sustainability.
- Previously, Martin managed businesses in the healthcare industry in senior executive positions, first in Germany, and since 1984 in Asia.
Concomitantly, he served as Director and President of Chambers of Commerce and as a Vice President of Thailand's Board of Trade.
He is proficient in German, English, with working knowledge of French, Italian and basic Thai. Holding a Ph.D. in natural sciences, Martin pursued continued education in business, digital marketing, environmental sciences, social psychology, sustainability, and Global Value Chains.